Editorial Review

From School Library Journal

Kindergarten-Grade 2—One morning, Cowgirl Kate wakes to the tickle of horse whiskers on her face. Her talking horse announces that he is tired of the barn. Kate explains that horses do not belong in the house and follows him around in her big red cowboy boots trying to persuade him to return to his stall. Whimsical watercolor illustrations follow the pair as the horse stumbles upon interesting things such as the toilet, bathtub, fake fruit, and his favorite item, the refrigerator. Finally, Kate coaxes the animal back to the barn just as her parents get home. The dialogue-heavy text is well paced and perfect for readers who are between picture books and chapter books. This warm and pleasant story will appeal especially to girls who dream of having their own horse.—Melinda Piehler, Sawgrass Elementary School, Sunrise, FL

From Booklist

PreS-Gr. 2. Set on a cattle ranch, this warm, beginning chapter book tells four spirited stories about young cowgirl Kate and her beloved talking horse, Cocoa. Young children will see themselves in both characters. In several episodes, for example, Cocoa puts off cow herding and even bedtime by employing a preschooler's procrastination techniques, such as asking for food and for water. Children will also recognize the friends' good-natured banter and lively dialogue as they negotiate their days together, in the barn and on the range. Lewin's bold-lined illustrations extend the comedy and the affectionate friendship with expressive animal characters reminiscent of her work in the Caldecott Honor Book Click Clack Moo: Cows That Type (2000). A fine choice for reading aloud to small groups or for confident new readers to tackle on their own. Gillian Engberg
